

Dr. Jane Clare Jones @janeclarejones

12 Jul 20 · 4 tweets · janeclarejones/status/1282232078738882561

Men spend however many millennia investing their dicks with omnipotence. They build massive towering phalluses all over the place. They use rape as a weapon of war. They name our vaginas 'sheaths.'

And then they turn around and blame us for it.

FuckingLOL.

Matt Baldwin
@thisbrokenwheel

Replying to @w1ntersfire @helenstaniland and 9 others

The overall obsession with penises overall - especially by the women involved here - is very funny. Equal parts phallophobia and phallic envy. So much emotional investment in them as an object of power. It's Freudian in the most literal sense (and I don't think much of Freud).

3:32 AM · Jul 12, 2020

1

See Matt Baldwin's other Tweets

I tell you what bros. You start accepting that your penises are just vulnerable flappy bits of flesh. You stop constructing penetrative sex as an act of conquest or invasion. You stop raping us. You stop blaming women when your cocks get hard and thinking it means you are entitled to anything whatsoever. You divest yourself of the entire psycho-ontological structure of a phallic culture. Accept that you are small, animal, needy creatures. That you are dependent on women's bodies for your existence and in many cases for the meeting of your sexual needs. Accept that women's humanity means there is no guarantee your needs will be met, and that you need to be okay with women's boundaries unless you want to be dominating assholes.

Once you've got that down we'll consider not giving a shit about where your cocks go. Okay?

...