This is to the very grumpy women on Twitter today you know who you are....Look, these are breeder domesticated zombie, and a dog poo are all things that I've been called by the noble righteous left-wing feminists who I feel are feeling the squeeze of pressure. And the reason they're feeling the squeeze of pressure... The reason they're feeling the very squeezed tight squeeze of pressure is because here at Standing for Women, me and my team, what we are doing is we are inviting ordinary women in we don't start pileons can't help it what people do if you criticize me, ladies, if you are personal, unjust, defamatory. If you say things like I'm racist, because I don't think seven-year-old girl should wear hijabs which is something I share with Ex-Muslims, with actually many actual Muslims, right across Iran, and Iraq and countries where those women are living their daily lives as Muslims not as some sort of decoration to the left to show how perfectly woke and virtuous we are. But women living in a theocratic society, Islamic Society, who also don't think the little girl should wear hijabs and those women may also not think that grown women should have to wear them either. And I share that with those women....

[3.45]

A particular group of women have decided not only to criticize the likes of myself, but also Dr. Julia long Venice, Allen, and many other women besides and I'm not going to keep naming so I know I will leave some out. I will leave some out and I really, really don't want to do that. However, I will say this. These women orchestrate nasty really nasty I've seen the evidence of this nasty hate filled campaigns. It has been said by wiser women than myself. That the reason they start and orchestrate these nasty hate filled defamatory campaigns is they want to control the narrative. And I'm sorry ladies, but the narrative for them, and the narrative they fed you is that it is impolite to call a man a man. It isn't very nice to criticize the likes of Debbie Hayton who wears women's clothes and calls himself a woman and has used women only spaces and has co-authored the school's policy which enabled him to go into women only spaces and boys to go in and girl only spaces. I have seen video footage and you can watch it too, on their own channel, where a bloody room gives that man a standing ovation, not here at Standing for Women. We don't do that. I'm not I don't think it's stunning and brave for a man to slice his penis inverted inside, or go around in women's clothing for arousal. No, I'm not gonna do that. I'm sorry if that makes some women feel uncomfortable. But Jesus Christ, we've been doing this long enough to know, you give an inch, they take a mile. You give them one word, you give them the word sheet, you give them word trans woman. You give this movement and nefarious, bad actors. In fact, not even bad actors. Every single last man that calls himself a woman, every single last man that comes into our spaces, you give any one of those men a single piece of our language. You put them on a platform, you get the whole bloody audience to champion them, champion them. What you do when you put those men on those panels, what Woman's Place UK did by putting men on those panels, they stopped you from being able to speak, they stopped you from being able to stay in that room. What you really thought of those men that men use in women's spaces. Men calling themselves women, Kristina Jane Harrison, said that he was a lesbian, he said it to me.

So you have to totally acknowledge the reason these horizontal attacks come is because they couldn't hold a goddamn line. They refused. They offered you a hard pass measure. They offered you tepid water when you wanted a soaking hot bath. That's what they did. That's why now when we are winning, and we are winning on the basis that we speak the truth we speak clearly we don't pull our punches, we are not afraid. And the reason that works is cuz it's honest. The reason I sometimes say things which some of you may not like is because I don't filter my words in case I'm not going to speak the truth. I don't filter my words in case something hateful comes out because I don't feel particularly hateful. The love I feel for women and girls and the solidarity and protection I feel for all women and girls irrespective of whether or not they agree with me. It's so absolute resolute that I don't I'm not afraid of what I'm going to say. It's why I'm okay to talk to anybody at any point.

I can talk to people that that I may not choose to talk to some other people I've talked to before. And that's basically because I didn't do my research. I didn't do my research because the guy in Canada, he'd interviewed Lindsey Shepard. Now I thought if he's interviewed Lindsey Shepherd, who I think is a courageous young woman who like myself came from the left, then he can't be all that bad. He must be a disgruntled lefty. Turns out he wasn't. I went to a far-left conference in Norway that those women will tell you it was a far-right conference. It was full of communists and socialists. That's who was in that conference. It was by a whole load of lefties. In Norway, it was not a far-right conference wasn't hanging out with far-right people. I've never hung out with any far-right people never ever, to my knowledge have I hung out with anyone on the far right. Woman's Place UK have kept up a statement that they have used against me since they made it. They decided that because that statement one tag that said I had whatever views I had, they don't even name them. They can't they don't put anything in it that you can check. They just make inferences and suggestions. And because of that I became a lone wolf. And I can honestly say I thank them for that. Because by being a lone wolf, it did make me more vulnerable to attacks. And I did get plenty of them. Thanks very much, including against my family and my children. But it also made me realize that if I want to do something, if I want to have a clear message, then it's best that I just speak for me. And if other people listening like it, then maybe they think I speak for them or certainly to them. It's just really, every now and again. And I must admit their audience gets smaller. But Woman's Place UK have never told anyone what the evidence is of their accusations or inferences.

I fundamentally disagree with religious practices that are anti women and girls. I feel fundamentally disagree with religious practices that harm the bodily autonomy of babies. I fundamentally disagree with any cultural or religious traditions that put women in a disadvantaged position. I don't think that's bloody controversial. I think every feminist so called feminist on the planet should totally agree with that sentiment. I'm surprised that me a non feminist needs to absolutely say it. There are women serving 16 years in prison in Iran for not wearing a hijab. Sod off

[10:45]

If you speak with conviction, if you represent yourself in this movement, I promise you will be believed. That's the difference. If you catch everything in polite, meaningless academic theoretical language, eventually people just get bored of listening. That's why our speakers corner events are so damn successful.

[11:32]

So our speakers corner events, they're not stagnant, they're not static. They are not staid. They're not frumpy. We welcome every single woman to come along. I don't even care. If you don't believe that trans is a load of nonsense. You still have the right to speak at speakers corner. That's what this is all about. Come and tell us why we're wrong.

[11:59]

I don't care. We don't platform a AGPs, under any circumstances, even the ones that some people like, we just don't talk about reality. We talk about whatever you want to talk about. We talk about whatever you want to say, is absolutely fine by us. Everyone does know all order. There's no running order. You don't have to put your name down, you have to put your hand up and we will talk until everybody has said whatever they want to say. That's how it works. Okay, so let me just have a look. Why am I not a feminist? Well go and have a look at some of the Bluetick feminists on Twitter and ask why I will ask you why are you? Why do you align with those women? Because I certainly can't. There are many women who say how terrible it is that I have spoken to not aligned with but even spoken to people on the opposite side of the political aisle. Those women literally stand with men who are giving away our damn rights. How dare they? Oh, I'm a I'm a Labour Party member. Oh, are you? That's great. And you're criticizing me for who I stand with or I'll talk to you literally aligned with a man who goes on the television. And it's totally dishonest about whether or not he knows what a woman is? Why would I feel ashamed of talking to Tucker Carlson, and his millions. He was an absolute joy to spend time with. I don't care if you don't like it. I will take people as I find them. I don't need to read stupid, bloody articles in left wing, bias crappy media to formulate an opinion on a man who I've met. I don't need anybody to tell me what he meant by something he said because I've heard him say it. I'm not falling for it.

For the last seven years. I've been called a white supremacist, a Nazi, a racist and other than I'm not even anyone. I've literally got 50 odd 1000 subscribers on YouTube. Probably everybody that's ever I mean, forgetting the viral stuff. And most people who shared the viral stuff they probably don't know who I am, right? I might be that woman. I probably don't even have a name to them. But the people that do not know my name have probably what fewer than 100,000 people who might know who I am. You know me by name. I know one. There have been stories in national newspapers. A total lies about me. Why would I believe what they say about anyone else? Why would anyone it doesn't make any bloody sense. If I know they lie about me and I'm nobody there. And of course they lie about people that are somebody. Of course they do. Debs I thank you so much very much for your £2.49 Big thumbs up from you. Playing Sox, who cares about left right politics when it comes to child abuse and predators we need to stand together as women and say no 100% and totally agree with you.

Look even those women, really nasty women, one of them....with a mermaid for a..... [for an avi. This is a reference to Ali Ceesay]...I know she does really, really good work for another organization, like tireless, thankless, really good work, where she can be asked to do something and she just gets on with it. And she does a great job. She is hateful about me. But she does really good work for women. So and so does. Oh, I can't remember the name. So do women from Woman's Place? I mean, look, I don't like the work they do. Particularly. I really don't. I think actually, the gaslighting is really not great. I think they've done a lot of harm, because they've persuaded women to accept the co-opting of our language. They've told women to they've introduced men into the space and the court and allowed them to have

she/her pronouns, which I think is ultimately damaging. But even those women thought they were doing a good thing. They thought they were doing great work, and maybe what the work that they do is they bring women in to dip a toe in the water and then once those women understand they actually find out the actual truth. So even those women might do good work, in spite of the damage that I believe they have done.

So I don't think it's worth arguing with them. I think it's worth ignoring them. It's what we all do to toddlers having terrible tantrums, and throwing their toys out the pram we just gray rock them you don't give you don't feed that sort of negativity. That is my advice to you. We don't need to focus on the negative stuff. There's so much negative that genuinely opposes us. We need to focus on our task at hand and our task at hand is saving children from infertility, saving children from the bodily mutilation through the medical industry, saving women's rights, obliterating the GRA, TERF island being the leader in the pushback on behalf of women it's our job in the UK to create such a strong narrative and winning that the rest of the world will follow suit because they will have some sort of blueprint to follow

Angela Howard “I went to WPUK Bristol on their speakers defo did not use she/her pronouns. Were talking about men it was great.” Well, you obviously didn't go to the one with Kristina Jane Harrison or Debbie Hayton. I do not speak of rumor. I have been to a WPUK event. I'd like to call them WUKIP. I have been to one of their events. I'm totally familiar with the standing ovation that Debbie Hayton got a very large event, which was invited by Professor Selena Todd. So pardon me, if I know what I'm talking about. Because I really, really do. When it comes to the single issue, focus here, let me just say for those at the back for those hard of hearing, I am pro-choice. And I still care about each and every one of you in the chat who is pro-life. Because women first I don't care about your views on pro-life. It's not an issue in the UK that we really have to worry about. We've made our laws and most of the public are totally happy that women have a right to choose. In America if you're losing if you're losing the war on reproductive rights, then you need to work a little bit harder. You need to convince people you need to win the argument. That's what happens. Need to take it back to women centered care, take it away from the government.

So when it comes to my single issue, focus, I am actually single issue it's the only way I think this job will get done. I cannot do it. Honestly, I get up in the morning, I do a little bit of work before my children get up. I work all day. I sometimes work in the evening, although I've tried not to because for the last five years, that's exactly what I've been doing. And quite frankly, I've missed some time with my family. So I sometimes work in the evening, I sometimes do work at weekends. I definitely go away at least two weekends out of five, probably two weekends out of four. I also do international trips away. And all of it is on this one issue if I had to worry about other issues as well. I don't think I'd have the time. I certainly probably would have been divorced by both my husband and children by now. So anyway if we can stop being distracted by those that seek to divide us then I promise we will win. If we can maintain what is important. Keep it tight. Keep it at the forefront of our mind. Kathy Harris five pounds when you conquered when Edinburgh Oh nice. Maybe you could head west as Daniel O'Donnell says the castles always on the boil. I would love to come to Ireland. Love love love. My grandfather was from I think it's green and in Cork. But I never met him he died when my mother was a baby. Anyway, so if you can focus on the task at hand and I promise we will win if you stop getting distracted by those that really are quite desperate to divide us. I promise we will win and people you know why else we're gonna win? Because I am so never lose.
